66th Year—302

Christians World Over Fete Christ's Birthday

Holiday Is: Gay Sad

CHICAGO, Dec. 24 — (P)—The Northern one-third of the United States and a few other spots farther south are going to have a white Christmas.

That confines it pretty much to territory which already has snow on the ground, the weather bureau here said. It includes areas north of a line running through Southern Pennsylvania, Central Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, Northern Missouri, the Kansas-Nebraska border, and into the Rockies.

Cold was moving eastward and southward into the mid-Atlantic and south Atlantic states, but the weather bureau said it would moderate as it spread.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 — (P)—More than 800,000 postal workers are staggering out from under the biggest avalanche of Christmas mail in the country's history.

An estimated 5.8 billion pieces of mail will have been delivered between Dec. 1 and Dec. 25. That's an average of more than 37 pieces of mail for every man, woman and child in the United States.

LONDON, Dec. 24 — (P)—Britain's royal family is assembling in King George's great Sandringham estate for its biggest Christmas get-together since World War II.

Accompanying the monarch were Queen Elizabeth, Queen Mother Mary, Princess Elizabeth and her two children, Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

All the princes and princesses, dukes and duchesses of royal blood will be there Christmas Day—with two exceptions. The Duke of Windsor, who gave up the throne now occupied by his brother, never attends these family sessions. Princess Mary, the king's sister, also will be absent.

NEW YORK, Dec. 24 — (P)—The Army has used with red tape to speed 1,000 returning soldiers to a Christmas in their homes.

The soldiers, many accompanied by their families, arrived in Brooklyn from Germany on the transport Washington.

Ordinarily all would have spent two days at Fort Hamilton for clearance formalities. But several weeks ago, the Army sent service officers to Germany and cleared passengers there. All they had to do was wave goodbye to one another and head for the nearest railroad.

Lone Survivor Found In Mine As Death Takes 119

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill., Dec. 24 — (P)—One survivor was rescued from the West Frankfort mine disaster Monday and Mine Superintendent John R. Foster, setting the final death toll at 119, said there "were no more alive."

Rescued from the mine 550 feet below the surface was Cecil Sanders, 44, of Benton. He was taken to the United Mine Workers hospital in serious condition. Foster said: "There are five men down there—no more alive. We believe that is all."

With 119 dead, the West Frankfort blast is the nation's worst mine disaster in 23 years.

Mrs. Sanders talked briefly with her husband and then to friends and hospital attendants.

"Oh, we've prayed and prayed for this," she said over and over. "She referred repeatedly to the 'miracle'."

The tunnel in which Sanders was found was parallel and about one-fourth of a mile away from a passageway in which 22 bodies had been found earlier. How Sanders escaped death was not learned.

Miners on the surface theorized that Sanders had closed himself off in a section of the mine not disturbed by the blast. This could have done by throwing up a brattish, an air baffle made of burlap supported by a wood frame.

Point 4 Director Killed In Crash

TEHRAN, Dec. 24 — (P)—Iran's American colony is in mourning for Dr. Henry G. Bennett, U. S. Point Four program director, and seven other Americans who perished Saturday night in a plane crash which claimed 21 lives.

The crash came when the big four-engine plane, owned by Egypt's MISR Airlines, tried to grope through a blinding snowstorm and hurtled into the base of a 10,000-foot granite range north of Tehran. Only one survived the disaster, worst in Iran's air history.

COLUMBUS, Dec. 24 — (P)—The long Christmas weekend has been marred by accidental death.

With the four-day holiday weekend only slightly more than half over, 10 persons were dead in Ohio through accidental causes.

Traffic accidents claimed four of the lives, fires cost four more and miscellaneous causes accounted for two deaths.

TOLEDO, Dec. 24 — (P)—Nineteen-year-old Carol Lee of Toledo knew her fiancé needed a new muffler for his car immediately so she bought him one as a Christmas gift and gave it to him last week.

Her fiancé, Daniel Smith Jr., 23, intended to install the new muffler "as soon as he got the chance." Carol told police from her Toledo hospital bed.

Danny was found dead, apparently of carbon monoxide poisoning and Carol unconscious in Danny's convertible Sunday night.

The new muffler lay on the back seat of the car.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 24 — (P)—Felix Spitz, who came to this country 12 years ago as a refugee from the then Nazi-controlled Austria, wasn't an actor but he loved to play Santa Claus.

In five years as a file clerk in the office of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees Union here he donned Santa Claus togs and passed out small gifts to fellow workers.

This year, Spitz began assembling his costume and went into a mail room to put it on. A short time later another employee found him—dead of a heart attack.

1,000 Kiddies Given Christmas Treats By Santa

More than 1,000 Circleville youngsters were given Christmas treats of candy and other goodies by Santa Claus Sunday night beside the community Christmas tree in the Courthouse lawn.

Old Saint Nick arrived on schedule to greet local youngsters and their parents at 6:30 p. m.

In more solemn ceremonies, a special Christmas service preceded Santa's arrival.

In line with the religious theme of the city's Christmas celebration this year, the Rev. Robert Weaver of the First Methodist church, presented a brief inspirational message on "The Significance of Christmas."

CHOIRS of the First Methodist church and the Second Baptist church were on hand with a program of Christmas carols.

On Saturday night, the choir of the Presbyterian church, presented a similar program of carols. Monty Lambert, chairman of the special committee, said Monday that more than 1,000 boxes of candy were distributed to Circleville children Sunday night.

Members of the Circleville Business and Professional Women's club assisted Santa Claus in distributing the candy treats.

Lambert said that about 1,000 additional boxes are still on hand, and will be distributed to needy families in the city Christmas Eve.

In addition, members of the Circleville police department, who directed traffic at Court and Franklin streets Sunday night during the Christmas service, also distributed candy to needy families in the city.

Mother and Three Tots Die In Fire

YOUNGSTOWN, Dec. 24 — (P)—Five-year-old Donald Youngblood Jr.—apparently pushed naked out of his flaming home in nearby Austintown—ran through snow to a neighbor's Sunday and shouted: "My mommie's burning up."

Mrs. Chris Haynes, the neighbor who found the youngster shivering at her door, looked 50 yards away and saw the Youngblood home in a mass of flames.

Inside, firemen found the mother and three of her small children. They were Mrs. Margaret Youngblood, 24; Alice, 6; Thomas, 3; and Paul, 2. Funeral services will be held Wednesday.

Traditions Vary On Eve Of Holiday

But Celebrators Have Failed To Find Peace He Preached

By Associated Press
Christians the world over, who have failed for centuries to find the peace Christ preached, celebrated His birthday eve Monday in many languages, customs and traditions.

The President is scheduled to press a button Monday evening to light the National Community Christmas Tree. He will do that from his home in Independence, Mo., and broadcast his annual Christmas message.

In Vatican City, Pope Pius XII again made an impassioned plea for peace. It was the pontiff's 13th Christmas message since his enthronement.

In Korea, in Europe, even behind the Iron Curtain, praises were sung for the Lord. Soldiers of the more affluent countries fighting in Korea and standing duty in Western Europe organized parties for the children of the countries where they themselves are foreigners.

In the Holy Land, torn by the 1948 war between Arabs and Jews, Moslem Jordan relaxed its barriers on the holy shrines of Bethlehem and the old city of Jerusalem.

JORDAN occupies both, but the second straight year is letting 2,500 Christians in from Israel to worship.

The first of a series of Christmas services in the Holy Land was held Sunday in Nazareth where Jesus was reared. It was held in the Nazareth church maintained by the Southern Baptist church of the United States.

In Europe, American soldiers, sailors and airmen are playing host to more than a quarter million needy children at hundreds of holiday parties.

The three Allied commandants of Western Germany donated a total of $47,500 to make the season a bit cheerier for poor kids and old folks in West Berlin. It'll go mostly for shoes and clothing.

Gen. and Mrs. Dwight D. Eisenhower planned an "old-fashioned American Christmas at home"—home being their quarters at SHAPE just outside of Paris. A few close friends will help them put away the turkey.

The same fare goes to all American forces overseas—a hot turkey. (Continued on Page Two)

Impassioned Plea For Peace Made Again By Pontiff

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 24 — (P)—Pope Pius XII, in his 13th Christmas message to the world since his enthronement, made an impassioned plea for peace Monday.

Speaking in a strong voice on the eve of the anniversary of the birth of Christ, the pontiff expressed joy at once again being able to talk to the faithful in all continents.

But, he said, grave problems still weigh upon the world and are more than ever cutting it into two distinct and opposing camps.

Indicating the Roman Catholic church could not take a stand with either of these two camps, the pope outlined the church's contributions to peace. The church, he said, can not have a "pure political interest."

The Catholic church, the pope declared, is a "religious and not a political institution."

"Political men and some times churchmen," he said, "who would intend to make of the spouse of Christ (the church) their ally would violate the very essence of the church."

If war is truly to be avoided, he said, there must be a return to spiritual values which alone can assure peace.

The pope, as he has stressed in recent speeches and especially in all of the last 12 Christmas messages to the world, again spoke of need for social reform and social justice for all men.

But referring in an impassioned tone to the persecution the church has experienced and is experiencing in the Communist-dominated countries, the pope said the church could not be an institute of silence.

Millions of men, he said, can not speak out for peace; millions of men are deprived of their "moral liberty" and can not practice their faith.

Santa In GI Boots Common On Yule Eve Along Elbe

FRANKFURT, Dec. 24 — (P)—All's quiet along the Elbe line this Christmas tide.

Nearly half a million Allied troops, guarding Europe's frontier with the Soviet bloc, are celebrating the holidays under less tension than at any time since war exploded in Korea.

Behind the Elbe line, a Soviet army group is sticking to winter quarters. It is outnumbered now by the defense forces in West Germany—Americans, British, French, Canadians, Belgians, Danes and Norwegians.

Growing friendship between West Germans and U. S. troops has warmed the holiday spirit in the American zone.

Germans have invited thousands of American soldiers into their homes for Christmas dinner. In Bavaria, newly-arrived troops like the 28th U. S. Infantry Division (Pennsylvania National Guard) and the 43rd Infantry Division (New England National Guard), will celebrate their first Christmas abroad. Many men of the 28th, which includes hundreds of "Pennsylvania Dutchmen," will eat Christmas goose with German neighbors just as their grandparents did.

There have been parties galore given by American soldiers for German orphans and every post in the command has arranged at least one. Other new troops, like the Fourth U. S. Infantry and the Second Armored have joined in with the old-timers to give them. Santa Claus in GI boots has become the rule.

Santa Ordered To Avoid Kids

WORKINGHAM, Eng., Dec. 24 — (P)—Santa Claus got official notice Monday to stay away from the Workingham Children's Home for at least a week.

A quarantine notice said 40 of the kids had come down with mumps.

ing stand from the Mason Furniture company.

Fourth: Pen-light, purse-light and billfold set from Moore's Store; a sport shirt from I. W. Kinsey, and a scarf from Western Auto Associate Store.

Fifth: A case of Coca-Cola from the Coca-Cola Bottling company; set of decorated tumblers from Harpster and Yost; a two-pound box of hand-dipped butter creams from The Sweet Shop.

Christmas Party Fire Takes Lives Of 41 In Mexico

TIJUANA, Mexico, Dec. 24 — (P)—Screams of dying children and women left this city gripped in the horror of a Christmas party fire that took a toll officially estimated at 41 or more lives.

Burned and broken remains were still being examined in an effort to complete an accurate count. There were unofficial estimates ranging up to 90 or more.

Eighty-eight who escaped from the burning, three-story building downstairs to a single doorway, were treated for burns. Officials said the only fire escape was not only locked but boarded up.

Thirty-three were still in the hospital, five or six on the verge of death, doctors said. Among the 33 were 19 children. Officials said this probably indicates the ratio of little ones among the dead.

The annual party for needy children was in full swing when its joy was turned to terror at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night.

There were different accounts of how the fire started. Tijuana Fire Chief Gill Chidez declared that someone was criminally responsible. He did not elaborate. Everyone agreed the flames spread with terrible speed from near the location of a Christmas tree.

Bloodmobile Here Wednesday

Reminder that the Bloodmobile will visit Circleville Wednesday from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the First Methodist church was made today by a local Red Cross blood program spokesman.

Less than 40 persons have so far pledged blood donations. The Pickaway County quota is set at 125 pints.

Even though the Bloodmobile visits on the day following Christmas, the donation of a pint of blood will still be the best "Christmas gift" for a soldier in Korea.

CHURCHES SELDOM EMPTY THESE DAYS

Little Nazareth Remembers Event Of 2,000 Years Ago

NAZARETH, Dec. 24 — (P)—There is a solemn atmosphere in this tiny town in the hills of Northern Israel, where almost 2,000 years ago Mary was told by the Angel Gabriel:

"Hail, thou art highly favored, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women."

There is a real Christmas spirit in the town where Jesus was reared by his father, Joseph the carpenter, who imbued him with a love for the sacred scrolls of divine law.

In many houses of Nazareth—inhabited now by 15,000 persons—Christmas trees are being decorated. It was not easy to cut them and bring them in during an almost uninterrupted downpour the last few days. But not many Christians in this town would let their homes be without the traditional tree of hope and love.

THE SENSITIVE fingers of sightless little Harry Smith, of Uniontown, Pa., identify Santa Claus at a party in Pittsburgh given for the Western Pennsylvania School For the Blind. It's the beard of St. Nicholas that Harry recognized as soon as he felt it.

WHO IS TO PAY THE FINES?

Reds Fine U.S. Fliers $30,000 Each As 'Spies'

BUDAPEST, Dec. 24 — (P)—Hungary has ruled the four American fliers forced down in their C-47 Cargo plane by Soviet fighters Nov. 19 must pay fines of 300,000 forints—about $30,000—each, or spend three months in jail.

The government, in announcing that Sunday, said they confessed to violating the Hungarian border and acquiesced in the verdict against them in military court.

Their plane got lost while en route from Germany to Yugoslavia with cargo for the U. S. embassy in Belgrade, American authorities announced after they disappeared.

The four were accused by the Russians at the United Nations Assembly last week of being "spies and saboteurs." The U. S. accused the Russians of "spy mania."

The four are Capt. John J. Swift of Glen Falls, N. Y.; Capt. Dave H. Henderson of Shawnee, Okla.; T-Sgt. Jess A. Duff of Spokane, Wash., and Sgt. James A. Elam of Kingsland, Ark.

IN WASHINGTON, President Truman indicated the government is puzzled over what action to take to help the fliers.

Mr. Truman was asked at the airport, before leaving to spend Christmas at home in Missouri, whether he planned any move Monday in the case. He said "no."

"What can you do?" he inquired solemnly. Officials of the American legation here were trying to contact the Hungarian foreign ministry Monday to find out who is supposed to pay the fines, where the money has to be paid, and how.

George Abbott, U. S. charge d'affaires at Budapest, said efforts to reach Communist officials to learn the conditions for their release were fruitless.

He said the Reds apparently were celebrating the holidays and the banks will not reopen until Dec. 27.

Taft Is Expected To Vote For Ike

TAFT, Tex., Dec. 24 — (P)—A "Draft Ike" movement, now underway in this city, has received the quick approval of San Patricio County Democrat Chairman W. B. Moss and all 16 precinct chairmen.

The petition which they signed pledged the general their support regardless of which ticket he might choose if he runs for President.

Dormitory Burns

DELAWARE, Dec. 24 — (P)—A two-story brick dormitory at the nearby Girls' Industrial School was destroyed by fire Monday.

The blaze, estimated by a state official to have caused $350,000 damage, forced 24 teen-age girls to flee. None was injured but most lost all their clothes.

Postoffice Proposal Is Given Nod

Only 3 Days Remain For Negotiators To Agree On Truce

MUNSAN, Dec. 24 — (P)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's appeal to the Communist high command to open the gates of North Korean prison camps to representatives of the International Red Cross has been rejected.

However, the Reds proposed, and the UN quickly agreed, to establish a postoffice in neutral Pannunjom so prisoners of both sides could send and receive mail. Details will be worked out later.

With only three days remaining until the provisional cease-fire line agreement expires, there appeared slim chance negotiators would be able to agree on a Korean armistice before the deadline.

Along the quiet, wintry battle front, Allied troops beat back a series of minor Red probing attacks.

But for the most part soldiers attended religious services and put the finishing touches on preparations for Christmas celebrations.

There was little air action except for strikes against Communist railroads and supply facilities.

SIX HUNDRED soldiers jammed a new chapel near the front Monday and heard Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, celebrate his first wartime mass in Korea.

A hand-written letter from Maj. Gen. William F. Dean to his wife in Berkeley, Calif., was turned over to UN negotiators by the Reds Monday in Pannunjom. The letter immediately was put aboard a plane for Japan. It will be forwarded to Mrs. Dean from Tokyo.

The letter was delivered soon after a Communist correspondent told of interviewing the former 24th Division commander at a prison camp near Pyongyang only three days ago.

The prisoner of war subcommittee continued its haggling over lists of prisoners exchanged last Tuesday.

Both groups scheduled meetings for Christmas Day (9 p. m. EST Monday) in a last-minute attempt to reach agreement.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee San Jo struck a hopeful note. "We hope we are trying to reach an agreement before the 27th of December," Lee said. "Of course we will give priority to (exchanging) the sick and wounded (prisoners). As the 27th is not far away, we don't know why there is such a hurry."

Lee's statement was made after Rear Adm. R. E. Libby asked him whether the Reds had changed their minds about an Allied request for an immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

Iceland Going Without Yule Trees This Year

REYKJAVIK, Dec. 24 — (P)—There is a grave shortage of Christmas trees in Iceland.

Ten thousand Danish Christmas trees destined for Icelanders' homes have been dumped into Reykjavik harbor. The dumping was ordered by local authorities who have put a ban on importation of trees from Denmark and Sweden because of spreading hoof and mouth disease in those countries.

Most of Iceland's 150,000 population will be without their traditional trees this Christmas for the first time in years.

Evergreen trees suitable for Christmas don't grow on this craggy island. A plane in from Finland brought all it could carry, some 700 trees that were distributed in a lottery. Proceeds from the lottery went to a fund to plant trees here for future generations.

Prizes were awarded by the Chamber along with local merchants.

Judging was done impartially in two divisions of the city, with duplicate prizes being offered in the North and South sections. Main street was the dividing line.

Santa In GI Boots Common On Yule Eve Along Elbe

FRANKFURT, Dec. 24 — (P)—All's quiet along the Elbe line this Christmas tide.

Nearly half a million Allied troops, guarding Europe's frontier with the Soviet bloc, are celebrating the holidays under less tension than at any time since war exploded in Korea.

Behind the Elbe line, a Soviet army group is sticking to winter quarters. It is outnumbered now by the defense forces in West Germany—Americans, British, French Canadians, Belgians, Danes and Norwegians.

Growing friendship between West Germans and U. S. troops has warmed the holiday spirit in the American zone.

Germans have invited thousands of American soldiers into their homes for Christmas dinner. In Bavaria, newly-arrived troops like the 28th U. S. Infantry Division (Pennsylvania National Guard) and the 43rd Infantry Division (New England National Guard), will celebrate their first Christmas abroad. Many men of the 28th, which includes hundreds of "Pennsylvania Dutchmen," will eat Christmas goose with German neighbors just as their grandparents did.

There have been parties galore given by American soldiers for German orphans and every post in the command has arranged at least one. Other new troops, like the Fourth U. S. Infantry and the Second Armored have joined in with the old-timers to give them. Santa Claus in GI boots has become the rule.

Santa Ordered To Avoid Kids

WORKINGHAM, Eng., Dec. 24 — (P)—Santa Claus got official notice Monday to stay away from the Workingham Children's Home for at least a week.

A quarantine notice said 40 of the kids had come down with mumps.

ing stand from the Mason Furniture company.

Fourth: Pen-light, purse-light and billfold set from Moore's Store; a sport shirt from I. W. Kinsey, and a scarf from Western Auto Associate Store.

Fifth: A case of Coca-Cola from the Coca-Cola Bottling company; set of decorated tumblers from Harpster and Yost; a two-pound box of hand-dipped butter creams from The Sweet Shop.

Christmas Party Fire Takes Lives Of 41 In Mexico

TIJUANA, Mexico, Dec. 24 — (P)—Screams of dying children and women left this city gripped in the horror of a Christmas party fire that took a toll officially estimated at 41 or more lives.

Burned and broken remains were still being examined in an effort to complete an accurate count. There were unofficial estimates ranging up to 90 or more.

Eighty-eight who escaped from the burning, three-story building downstairs to a single doorway, were treated for burns. Officials said the only fire escape was not only locked but boarded up.

Thirty-three were still in the hospital, five or six on the verge of death, doctors said.

Among the 33 were 19 children. Officials said this probably indicates the ratio of little ones among the dead.

The annual party for needy children was in full swing when its joy was turned to terror at 11:15 o'clock Saturday night.

There were different accounts of how the fire started. Tijuana Fire Chief Gill Chidez declared that someone was criminally responsible. He did not elaborate. Everyone agreed the flames spread with terrible speed from near the location of a Christmas tree.

Bloodmobile Here Wednesday

Reminder that the Bloodmobile will visit Circleville Wednesday from 11 a. m. to 5 p. m. at the First Methodist church was made today by a local Red Cross blood program spokesman.

Less than 40 persons have so far pledged blood donations. The Pickaway County quota is set at 125 points.

Even though the Bloodmobile visits on the day following Christmas, the donation of a pint of blood will still be the best "Christmas gift" for a soldier in Korea.

CHURCHES SELDOM EMPTY THESE DAYS

Little Nazareth Remembers Event Of 2,000 Years Ago

NAZARETH, Dec. 24 — (P)—There is a solemn atmosphere in this tiny town in the hills of Northern Israel, where almost 2,000 years ago Mary was told by the Angel Gabriel:

"Hail, thou art highly favored, the Lord is with thee; blessed art thou among women."

There is a real Christmas spirit in the town where Jesus was reared by his father, Joseph the carpenter, who imbued him with a love for the sacred scrolls of divine law.

In many houses of Nazareth—inhabited now by 15,000 persons—Christmas trees are being decorated. It was not easy to cut them and bring them in during an all-moon interrupted downpour the last few days. But not many Christians in this town would let their homes be without the traditional tree of hope and love.

THE SENSITIVE fingers of sightless little Harry Smith, of Uniontown, Pa., identify Santa Claus at a party in Pittsburgh given for the Western Pennsylvania School For the Blind. It's the beard of St. Nicholas that Harry recognized as soon as he felt it.

WHO IS TO PAY THE FINES?

Reds Fine U.S. Fliers $30,000 Each As 'Spies'

BUDAPEST, Dec. 24 — (P)—Hungary has ruled the four American fliers forced down in their C-47 Cargo plane by Soviet fighters Nov. 19 must pay fines of 300,000 forints—about $30,000 each, or spend three months in jail.

The government, in announcing that Sunday, said they confessed to violating the Hungarian border and acquiesced in the verdict against them in military court.

Their plane got lost while en route from Germany to Yugoslavia with cargo for the U. S. embassy in Belgrade. American authorities announced after they disappeared.

The four were accused by the Russians at the United Nations Assembly last week of being "spies and saboteurs." The U. S. accused the Russians of "spy mania."

The four are Capt. John J. Swift of Glen Falls, N. Y.; Capt. Dave H. Henderson of Shawnee, Okla.; T-Sgt. Jess A. Duff of Spokane, Wash., and Sgt. James A. Elam of Kingsland, Ark.

IN WASHINGTON, President Truman indicated the government is puzzled over what action to take to help the fliers.

Mr. Truman was asked at the airport, before leaving to spend Christmas at home in Missouri, whether he planned any move Monday in the case. He said "no."

"What can you do?" he inquired solemnly.

Officials of the American legation here were trying to contact the Hungarian foreign ministry Monday to find out who is supposed to pay the fines, where the money has to be paid, and how.

George Abbott, U. S. charge d'affaires at Budapest, said efforts to reach Communist officials to learn the conditions for their release were fruitless.

He said the Reds apparently were celebrating the holidays and the banks will not reopen until Dec. 27.

Taft Is Expected To Vote For Ike

TAFT, Tex., Dec. 24 — (P)—A "Draft Ike" movement, now underway in this city, has received the quick approval of San Patricio County Democrat Chairman W. B. Moss and all 16 precinct chairmen.

The petition which they signed pledged the general their support regardless of which ticket he might choose if he runs for President.

Dormitory Burns

DELAWARE, Dec. 24 — (P)—A two-story brick dormitory at the nearby Girls' Industrial School was destroyed by fire Monday.

The blaze, estimated by a state official to have caused $350,000 damage, forced 24 teen-age girls to flee. None was injured but most lost all their clothes.

Postoffice Proposal Is Given Nod

Only 3 Days Remain For Negotiators To Agree On Truce

MUNSAN, Dec. 24 — (P)—Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway's appeal to the Communist high command to open the gates of North Korean prison camps to representatives of the International Red Cross has been rejected.

However, the Reds proposed, and the UN quickly agreed, to establish a postoffice in neutral Panmunjom so prisoners of both sides could send and receive mail. Details will be worked out later.

With only three days remaining until the provisional cease-fire line agreement expires, there appeared slim chance negotiators would be able to agree on a Korean armistice before the deadline.

Along the quiet, wintry battle front, Allied troops beat back a series of minor Red probing attacks.

But for the most part soldiers attended religious services and put the finishing touches on preparations for Christmas celebrations.

There was little air action except for strikes against Communist railways and supply facilities.

SIX HUNDRED soldiers jammed a new chapel near the front Monday and heard Francis Cardinal Spellman, archbishop of New York, celebrate his first wartime mass in Korea.

A hand-written letter from Maj. Gen. William F. Dean to his wife in Berkeley, Calif., was turned over to UN negotiators by the Reds Monday in Panmunjom. The letter immediately was put aboard a plane for Japan. It will be forwarded to Mrs. Dean from Tokyo.

The letter was delivered soon after a Communist correspondent told of interviewing the former 24th Division commander at a prison camp near Pyongyang only three days ago.

The prisoner of war subcommittee continued its haggling over lists of prisoners exchanged last Tuesday.

Both groups scheduled meetings for Christmas Day (9 p. m. EST Monday) in a last-minute effort to reach agreement.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee San Jo struck a hopeful note. "We hope we are trying to reach an agreement before the 27th of December," Lee said. "Of course we will give priority to (exchanging) the sick and wounded (prisoners). As the 27th is not far away, we don't know why there is such a hurry."

Lee's statement was made after Rear Adm. R. E. Libby asked him whether the Reds had changed their minds about an Allied request for an immediate exchange of sick and wounded prisoners.

Iceland Going Without Yule Trees This Year

REYKJAVIK, Dec. 24 — (P)—There is a grave shortage of Christmas trees in Iceland.

Ten thousand Danish Christmas trees destined for Icelanders' homes have been dumped into Reykjavik harbor. The dumping was ordered by local authorities who have put a ban on importation of trees from Denmark and Sweden because of spreading hoof and mouth disease in those countries.

Most of Iceland's 150,000 population will be without their traditional trees this Christmas for the first time in years.

Evergreen trees suitable for Christmas don't grow on this craggy island. A plane in from Finland brought all it could carry, some 700 trees that were distributed in a lottery. Proceeds from the lottery went to a fund to plant trees here for future generations.

LOVE NOT PART OF PICTURE Mechanized Cupid Seen By Electronics Expert

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—(AP)—Now they want to mechanize Cupid. The enchanting cherub may carry an electronic bow and arrow in the future, and fly on jet-propelled wings.

If predictions of Hugo Gernsback, publisher of a radio-electronics magazine, come true, the romance of the future will go something like this:

Boy meets girl at the club dance, notes her golden curls and big blue eyes, tests her agility and conversational ability through a few turns of the samba and says, in the time-honored way:

"Baby, where have you been all my life?"

Girl has listed mentally the important facts that boy is tall, dark and handsome, a smooth dancer and possessed of unusual charm, so she, too, sticks to ritual and replies:

"Just waiting around for you."

MATTERS PROCEED along the usual route from this point until it's time to announce the engagement. Then science rears its ugly head.

Girl's father, being a gentleman who keeps up with things, has a heart-to-heart talk with the young people. He admits that boy's social and financial background are impeccable, but adds:

"Now, kids, there's just a little matter of routine to go through with before we can make this official. I'd like you both to go down to the testing bureau and get your MQ (marriage quotient)."

If it checks, I'll give my blessing and furthermore, I'll be dog-gone sure you'll live happily ever after."

So boy and girl go through the tests. These start with a questionnaire of perhaps 100 questions, inquiring in detail into such matters as heredity, individual taste, sex habits, education, IQ, general health, hair texture, complexion, RH blood factor, or preferences, musical and artistic sense, religious leanings and ethics.

After the young lovers have sweated through this exam, they are conducted into a germ-proof

Car Passenger Assessed $42.20 On Two Counts

Clarence McFarland of Columbus was assessed a total of $42.20 in fines and costs Sunday night in mayor's court on two accusations.

McFarland, a passenger in an auto operated by Garold Crabtree of Columbus, was arrested on accusations of resisting arrest and drunkenness, when the auto was involved in a collision with a car operated by Ronald Leach, of Southpoint, north on U.S. 23 near the Franklin County line at 6 p. m. Saturday.

McFarland was fined $25 and $6.50 in costs for resisting arrest, and also fined $10 and $4.70 in costs for being in a state of intoxication.

State Patrolman Clyde Wells said the Crabtree auto travelling south on Route 23, swerved across the center line and collided with the Leach car. Mrs. Leach, a passenger, suffered minor bruises.

Crabtree was also arrested on accusation of drunken driving. He was to be bound over to common pleas court Monday morning on $500 bond from mayor's court.

Pennsylvania Soldier Hurt As Cars Collide

A Pennsylvania soldier suffered a severely bruised jaw last weekend when the car in which he was riding crashed broadside into the rear of another auto.

The accident happened at about 7:15 p. m. Saturday on Route 22, about two miles west of Circleville.

Deputy James Diltz said an auto operated by Charles Gerhard, 22, of Glenside, Pa., had slowed for traffic when it was struck by an auto operated by Joseph Rudy, 22, of Coraopolis, Pa.

The Rudy car skidded sideways in the highway before striking the Gerhard car. After the crash, the Rudy car went across the highway into the north ditch.

INJURED was Danny Clemens, 22, a passenger in the Rudy car. He was treated in Lockbourne Air Force hospital for jaw injuries.

Both autos contained a total of 10 soldiers from Ft. Knox, Ky., all enroute to their homes in Pennsylvania for Christmas vacations.

Weather Frosts
Christmas Trees

Mother nature pitched in Monday to give reluctant Circleville merchants a boost with their Christmas decorations.

Although roughly half of the Christmas trees supplied to local merchants have remained unspoiled by decorations, a heavy coating of frost early Monday gave all of the trees a silver sheen.

Ashville Lad Killed By Shotgun Blast

Robert Swank, 19, of Ashville was instantly killed by a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun about noon Monday at the home of his step-father Millard Hart.

Roger Burris, a companion, said that he and Swank had been "playing together" when the gun discharged.

The shotgun blast struck Swank in the side of the head, killing him instantly.

The Pickaway County sheriff's department and Coroner Lloyd Jones are investigating.

35 Employees Given Special Honor By Purina

Circleville's Ralston-Purina plant singled out 35 of its employees for special recognition Saturday night during the plant's annual Christmas party in First Evangelical United Brethren church service center.

Heading the list were six employees who have completed 15 years of service with the Purina company.

They are Arthur Johnson, Lee Cook, Lloyd Edgington, Ray Cook, Arch Ward and Charles Warner. Each man received a gold wrist watch.

Seven other men were honored for having completed 10 years of service, while 16 more were rewarded for five years.

CHOICE of rings or travel alarm clocks were awarded to Marvin Jenkins, Robert Miller, M. A. son Klingsmith, Walter May, Norman McNeal and Jack Bivens for 10 years of service.

Desk pen sets were given to Robert Bower, Clement Clark, Leland Flaker, Robert Woodward, Kenneth Azbell, Charles Flaker, Paul Tatum, Aaron Barr, John Dean, Marion Hupp, Harold Davis, Donald Hammon, Ernest Davis, Glenn Weaver, Ray Friend and James S. Steele for five years of service.

In addition, special recognition was accorded to four truck drivers who have operated at least three years without an accident.

Heading the list of safe truck drivers is Ray O'Neal, who has the outstanding safety record of any driver in the Purina network. O'Neal has driven eight years without an accident. During that period he has travelled a total of 414,958 accident-free miles.

Others awarded were Harry Shell, four years without an accident; Chester Starkey, six years without an accident; and Charles Lagore, three years without an accident.

TWO OTHERS who are to transfer from the local plant in the near future also received gifts. Anne Moeller is to transfer to the St. Louis office to handle exporting, while Owen Fullen is to transfer to the Richmond, Ind., plant as elevator foreman.

Judge William D. Radcliff of Pickaway County common pleas court was guest speaker for the annual Christmas dinner.

The judge pointed out that back in the days when America's industrial empire was being founded the big business monopoly was strongly objected to by the people.

Radcliff said big business was cut down by the formation of big labor unions, which in turn were cut down by the people.

The judge added that the problem facing the people at present is big government.

Each of the Purina employees received a 14-pound ham as a Christmas gift and will be paid a day's wages for Christmas.

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house

Not a present was showing, not even a blouse.

No stocking was hung, it might look like a hint

For favors or gifts, if it got into print.

The government worker who lived in the place

Would have to explain till blue in the face.

If neighbors dropped in for a moment to see

What Santa Claus brought and examine the tree

And found packages, gifts and presents galore,

All scattered around on the living room floor.

They'd exclaim "Oh, how fine" and "how grand" and "how dandy."

They'd munch on a cake or dig into the candy.

And most, upon leaving, would never think twice

About what they had seen, except it was nice

That friends and relations were thoughtful enough

To express some goodwill with this Christmastime stuff.

But one neighbor who left, out of many who came,

Might tell someone else "Why I think it's a shame,

"The presents he got. Just what did he do

"To get all this free? I sure wish I knew."

"I'd call up his boss and I'd tell him. I'd say

"A pretty fat Christmas on government pay."

So this government worker, who put on no airs,

Preferred to keep Santa Claus safely upstairs.

The toys for the children were under the bed.

The new hat for his wife was out in the shed.

He'd take it up late. It would be a surprise.

And, besides, it would frustrate the gossiping guys.

cy dinner for every GI, even on the frontlines of Korea.

In Moscow, foreigners went about their prayerful tribute to Christ. The Russian capital looked a bit festive in preparation for the celebration of New Year's.

SPASSO HOUSE, the U. S. embassy residence in Moscow, planned Christmas morning services to be conducted by the bishop of Fulham (England).

The Russians traditionally set up trees in their homes for New Year's like Westerners' Christmas trees. Gifts are exchanged, but the celebration is without religious significance.

The Russian Santa Claus is called "Ded Moroz," or Grandfather Frost. He looks a lot like old Kris Kringle.

The foreign embassies in Moscow are having parties for their colony of children.

The Rev. Fr. John Brassard, American Roman Catholic priest from Worcester, Mass., who lives in Moscow will be in Spasso House for Christmas Eve services.

In Frankfurt, U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy and his wife will hold open house Christmas afternoon for all Americans and Germans working for him.

The eight-day Jewish festival of Hanukkah started at sundown Sunday with ceremonies in synagogues and homes throughout the world. Children exchanged gifts as candles were lit.

Hanukkah, which usually falls about the same time as the Christmas-New Year holidays, commemorates the rededication of the temple of Jerusalem by the Maccabees about 2,000 years ago after they defeated the Syrian-Greek king, Antiochus.

"Just waiting around for you."

MATTERS PROCEED along the usual route from this point until it's time to announce the engagement. Then science rears its ugly head.

Girl's father, being a gentleman who keeps up with things, has a heart-to-heart talk with the young people. He admits that boy's social and financial background are impeccable, but adds:

"Now, kids, there's just a little matter of routine to go through with before we can make this official. I'd like you both to go down to the testing bureau and get your MQ (marriage quotient).

If it checks, I'll give my blessing and furthermore, I'll be doggone sure you'll live happily ever after."

So boy and girl go through the tests. These start with a questionnaire of perhaps 100 questions, inquiring in detail into such matters as heredity, individual taste, sex habits, education, IQ, general health, hair texture, complexion, RH blood factor, or preferences, musical and artistic sense, religious leanings and ethics.

After the young lovers have sweated through this exam, they are conducted into a germ-proof laboratory where they are allowed to go into a clinic, while an electronic device records their reactions.

THIS DIABOLICAL little machine will determine the electronic norm of each, and classify the degree of compatibility.

This result is added to the general questionnaire, and all the information is then transferred to large punched cards, which are fed into an electronic calculator.

This "electronic brain" then will compute the results of the tests, and the kids will find out whether they passed or flunked.

If they get a grade of 90 or over, the wedding bells may peal out in triumph. If between 70 and 90, their chances of happiness are so-so. But if the grade shows less than 50 per cent compatibility, it's all off.

Love apparently is not part of the picture.

THE PLANT'S day shift opened the program with a sextet composed of Helen Burns, Hank Hawks, Richard Peterson, Monty Kirkwood, Charabelle Rinehart and Marvene Wilson playing "Deck the Halls," "O Little Town of Bethlehem," "White Christmas" and "Silent Night."

Marvene Wilson sang "Blue Christmas" and a quintet made up of Rowena Atkins, Helen Burns, Mary Large, Charabelle Rinehart and Richard Peterson sang "Silver Bells."

A candlelighting ceremony was performed by Mary Danner, Francis Smith, Grace Boecher and Jeannine Strawser.

The night shift program was highlighted by a performance by Jim Fraunfelner.

Fraunfelner played several trumpet selections and ended his performance by playing "Taps" on a 96-inch G-E Slimline bulb.

Hank Hawks sang "Christmas" and Audaleen Thomas and Naomi Chaffin sang "Blue Christmas." The program closed with dancing.

One Breakin, Two Attempts Over Weekend

One breakin and two attempted breakins were reported to police over the weekend.

Thieves entered the tailor shop of Mrs. J. C. Rader, 117½ West Main street, by forcing the front door open. Nothing was reported missing.

In two breaking and entering attempts, thieves tried to force front doors of the Heffner Grain company and the Prudential Insurance company offices sometime Saturday night or Sunday.

In each case, an attempt was made to jimmy the door with a blunt instrument, police reported.

Nothing was reported missing in either attempt.

35 Employees Given Special Honor By Purina

Circleville's Ralston-Purina plant singled out 35 of its employees for special recognition Saturday night during the plant's annual Christmas party in First Evangelical United Brethren church service center.

Heading the list were six employees who have completed 15 years of service with the Purina company.

They are Arthur Johnson, Lee Cook, Lloyd Edgington, Ray Cook, Arch Ward and Charles Warner. Each man received a gold wrist watch.

Seven other men were honored for having completed 10 years of service, while 16 more were rewarded for five years.

CHOICE of rings or travel alarm clocks were awarded to Marvin Jenkins, Robert Miller, Mason Klingensmith, Walter May, Norman McNeal and Jack Bivens for 10 years of service.

Lads Are Lucky As Auto Passes

YONKERS, N. Y., Dec. 24.—(AP)—Bruno O. Boscamp steered his car over a cardboard box in the street Sunday so the wheels wouldn't smash it.

Lucky he did. Screams came from the box. Inside, Boscamp found two small boys who had used the box as a toboggan.

Vincent Mavilla, 8, suffered only minor bruises and 9-year-old Peter Richards wasn't hurt a bit.

'Twas the night before Christmas and all through the house

Not a present was showing, not even a blouse.

No stocking was hung, it might look like a hint

For favors or gifts, if it got into print.

The government worker who lived in the place

Would have to explain till blue in the face.

If neighbors dropped in for a moment to see

What Santa Clause brought and examine the tree

And found packages, gifts and presents galore,

All scattered around on the living room floor,

'They'd exclaim "Oh, how fine" and "how grand" and "how dandy."

'They'd munch on a cake or dig into the candy.

And most, upon leaving, would never think twice

About what they had seen, except it was nice

'That friends and relations were thoughtful enough

To express some goodwill with this Christmastime stuff.

But one neighbor who left, out of many who came,

Might tell someone else "Why I think it's a shame,

'The presents he got. Just what did he do

To get all this free? I sure wish I knew.

'I'd call up his boss and I'd tell him, 'I'd say

'A pretty fat Christmas on government pay."

So this government worker, who put on no airs,

Preferred to keep Santa Claus safely upstairs.

The toys for the children were under the bed.

The new hat for his wife was out in the shed.

He'd take it up late. It would be a surprise.

And, besides, it would frustrate the gossiping gyps.

In Moscow, foreigners went about their prayerful tribute to Christ. The Russian capital looked a bit festive in preparation for the celebration of New Year's.

SPASSO HOUSE, the U. S. embassy residence in Moscow, planned Christmas morning services to be conducted by the bishop of Fulham (England).

The Russians traditionally set up trees in their homes for New Year's like Westerners' Christmas trees. Gifts are exchanged, but the celebration is without religious significance.

The Russian Santa Claus is called "Ded Moroz," or Grandfather Frost. He looks a lot like old Kris Kringle.

The foreign embassies in Moscow are having parties for their colony of children.

The Rev. Fr. John Brassard, American Roman Catholic priest from Worcester, Mass., who lives in Moscow will be in Spasso House for Christmas Eve services.

In Frankfurt, U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy and his wife will hold open house Christmas afternoon for all Americans and Germans working for him.

The eight-day Jewish festival of Hanukkah started at sundown Sunday with ceremonies in synagogues and homes throughout the world. Children exchanged gifts as candles were lit.

Hanukkah, which usually falls about the same time as the Christmas-New Year holidays, commemorates the rededication of the temple of Jerusalem by the Maccabees about 2,000 years ago after they defeated the Syrian-Greek king, Antiochus.

NUMEROUS CHANGES OUTLINED

New Election Rulings Tough On Independents

COLUMBUS, Dec. 24.—Congressman Frazier Reams of Toledo is the first to indicate he will try out Ohio's new election laws applying to independents. And he may be the only one to try them for size next year because the last legislature made them so tough.

Nominally a Democrat, Reams ran as an independent in 1950 to nose out Republican and Democratic opponents in the ninth district. That made the former state welfare director the only independent in Congress from Ohio.

The state legislature also has an independent. But he hasn't announced whether he will try it again under the new rules. He is Rep. Thomas A. Christy of Monroe County, nominally a Democrat.

Both filed in August for the general election last year. They needed only enough signatures on their petitions to equal one per cent of the previous vote for governor in their areas. But next year they will need at least seven per cent to qualify.

AND THEY must file their petitions by Feb. 6 to get their names on the November election ballot. That's because the legislature changed the filing deadline from 90 days before the general election to 90 days before the May primary.

The legislature also banned any party candidates defeated in the primary from seeking election to any office as an independent the following November.

Legislators said that was to prevent candidates from getting two shots at elective offices. The old law only banned a candidate defeated in the primary from seeking the same office as an independent in November.

Experience Helps Control Shipping Fever

Experience has taught J. B. Anderson, Madison County cattle feeder, that shipping fever can be defeated, he said today.

Anderson blamed exposure and fatigue for making cattle susceptible to the disease. He tries to get his feeder cattle early so they will not be exposed to severe weather during shipping.

Cattle that arrive early enough also have the advantage of being put on pasture as soon as they reach the Mt. Sterling farm.

When severe weather is likely during a shipping trip, Anderson spends about $15 for tar paper with which to line the railroad car. The Madison County farmer also said cattle should be vaccinated for shipping disease at least five days before they are moved. "It doesn't do any good to vaccinate and load right away."

Dr. Vernon L. Tharp, college of veterinary medicine, Ohio State university, agreed that treating with bacterin should be at least five days before cattle are moved.

ANDERSON said weaned calves that have been creep-fed, stand shipping better than calves put on the cars right from their mothers. He also plans a complete cleaning of buildings in which feeder cattle are housed—just in case some of the barns are contaminated.

He added that if there is any doubt whether an animal is sick, a veterinarian is called. Early treatment helps control sickness.

Mayor Is Suicide

ZANESVILLE, Dec. 24.—Acting Coroner R. A. Neblinger Sunday returned a verdict of suicide in the death of Carl E. Daton, 48, mayor of nearby Roseville. He was found dead in his automobile in his garage, with a hose leading from the exhaust to the interior of the car.

An individual can sue the federal government under certain conditions—providing he can get the government's permission.

many tried for another office in the general election the following fall.

The new election laws prevent that. They are among 40 major changes that take effect next Jan. 1.

The others deal with the office-type ballot, the presidential ballot, pay of election officials, state convention delegates and the like.

Opponents claim the new rules for independents virtually lock the door against them in statewide races. They will need nearly 210,000 valid signatures to qualify next year, compared with less than 30,000 now. The seven per cent law does not apply to candidates for school board, township offices or those in municipalities under 2,000 population.

AND THE PRE-primary filing rule prevents independents from waiting until the party nominees are known before jumping in against them at a general election.

Another new law requires the names of presidential elector candidates on the presidential ballot. The 1952 ballots will list them under the party candidates for President and Vice President. Voters will mark their choices for all the candidates with a single "X". That prevents voters from splitting their choices for national convention delegates between the two parties.

Starting Jan. 1, election boards can set the pay of their clerks and deputy clerks. They now are fixed by a population formula. Election board members can receive between $360 and $5,000 a year under a population formula.

Precinct officials also will get more. They can receive up to $15, except where the two-crow system is used. Receiving officials in each crew can get up to $9 and counting officials to $12.

Long question and issue ballots will go out next year. The new law permits a summary instead of the full text on ballots.

Party committees starting next year can fill vacancies created by withdrawal or death of a candidate nominated in the primary. But the new law omits that provision for independents.

Committees also can put candidates on judicial ballots if a judge dies before the 40th day or after the 80th day before a general election.

FAILURE of the law to provide for such contingency forced a write-in vote.

Other new laws require: Election boards to use work sheets in totaling votes and to make the sheets a part of their records.

Boards to report the canvass of their vote promptly. The secretary of state to canvass the vote within 10 days after getting returns from all counties.

The attorney general or county prosecutor to enforce a requirement for candidates who changed their names within 10 years to note that change on the declaration of candidacy or nominating petitions.

ONCE UPON A CHRISTMAS EVE

SANTA CLAUS has asked the Astronomers if he might borrow the Great Dipper for just one night! And they, having agreed, relay Santa's request to Mister Moon, who, you know, is the Keeper of the Stars.

MISTER MOON goes to work and -- presto! -- the Great Dipper has vanished from the sky. However, no one on Earth notices it--for everybody is happily busy planning for the Greatest Holiday of All.

IT'S CHRISTMAS EVE and Eski's parents are saddened by their little child's disappointment over the undecorated tree Eski had worked so hard but in vain to make beautiful. Eski goes outside for one last look at the tree. Then—"Mom! Dad! Come here! Quickly!" They rush out and--lo, and behold--there stands the tree ablaze with seven great stars, the most beautifully decorated Christmas tree in all this wonderful world. (The End)

Elinor Williams' Teen Tips

There's no time like Christmas to get together with your friends for holiday fun.

Have a tree-trimming spree at your home and the party will practically take care of itself. This is a wonderful way to get to know a new boy or girl better—invite her or him to join the crowd who are going to help trim your tree.

It's also a good time to get together with boys and girls who have been away at school. If it's your turn to have a party, this is it!—and remember, there's no law against boys playing host at their homes. Boys who go to parties are supposed to have one themselves occasionally.

At tree-trimming time, the affair doesn't take much planning. Give your guests their favorite cold drink with cookies and ice cream. If you have a fireplace, toasting marshmallows will add to the fun. If your mother can help, a buffet supper with one hot dish will disappear like mad.

Use the telephone for invitations or make Christmas invitations with red and green paper and a few stars or a Santa Claus sticker. Make your home attractive with inexpensive decorations—natural greens, a row of red, white and green candles across the fireplace or table, bells and stars.

Mistletoe, too!

Everybody helps trim the tree, then everybody eats. If there's time for a game or two to keep things lively, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Elinor Williams at this paper for a free leaflet on merry-making party-games.

Vorys Believes UN Makes Progress

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Rep. Vorys (R-Ohio), U. S. delegate to the United Nations, arrived from Paris early Monday and expressed satisfaction with the progress of the UN General Assembly.

Vorys said the vote of confidence that the United States received after the Soviet attack on the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was "a pretty good way to round up this session."

He said he also was pleased with the UN reaction to the recent disarmament commission proposal.

CHRISTMAS EVE

PREEMINENT among festivals of peace stands Christmas. Some will ask what meaning Christmas can have in a world that has no sooner emerged from one war than it is confronted by the prospect of another. How can Christmas and Korea mesh, for example?

Does the spirit of the Prince of Peace survive when men fight and die, when governments compete in building armaments, when international clamor and oburgation assail the ear and the specter of atomic warfare chills the mind?

On this Christmas Eve, as houses and hearths are decked with greens, as curtains are drawn, as trees are lighted and carols sung, will it be possible to shut out the stricken world, to pretend that all is well, that the peace of Christmas has meaning?

To this question varied answers, not devoid of hope, can be given. One answer is to return to the earliest Christian traditions. Religion means a reverence for life. Christmas, the feast of a Birth, expresses this reverence.

What is the idea of freedom but reverence for life, reverence for the spirit of man, reverence for each individual soul? If it is necessary to fight and kill to protect this freedom, this is without doubt part of the paradox of good and evil, which is part of man's existence on this earth. Americans have made a free choice in favor of freedom. The American people are convinced, from their deepest intimations, that this is good.

The Manger, reverence for life — these are one. So the star will shine once more on this Christmas Eve, and in its radiance faith must be clearer, steadier and stronger.

WISCONSIN SIGNAL

SENATOR Taft's announcement that he will campaign in Wisconsin during the month of March in a contest for that state's presidential delegation to be decided April 1 reflects a rising appreciation of Wisconsin's importance in the Republican convention.

Names of General MacArthur, Warren and Stassen will also be entered in the primary, and perhaps Eisenhower's.

In 1940 Dewey won the Wisconsin primary and became the leading Republican candidate, only to lose to Willkie in the convention in a shift-change act. In 1944 Willkie entered the Wisconsin primary and was overwhelmingly defeated, thereafter retiring from the field. In 1948 Dewey was defeated in Wisconsin and won the nomination only after making a hard fight in other states.

Many Republicans are convinced the Wisconsin signal should have been heeded.

Santa Claus Is On His Way

Editor's note: three years ago, Hal Boyle, who has no children of his own but god-children by the dozens, wrote a story he would like to read on Christmas Eve to his own kids if the Lord had allowed him any. It is hereby repeated for the benefit of any dad having trouble getting junior to get into bed where he belongs.

NORTH POLE—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last!

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the Arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The Northern Lights switched on to a clear steady green—the "go ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lanes in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa Claus needed that wide, clear road in the sky. For his big red sled was placed so full of gifts it overflowed. It looked like a hayrick zooming through the crisp air.

"Oh, dear, oh dear," worried

Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of these presents fall out and bean some poor innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in twenty years."

"What is he fretting about?" whispered Donder to Vixen. "He's only riding in that sled. We have to pull it."

Vixen laughed so hard the bells on her harness tinkled in merry music. And all the other reindeer laughed, too.

As Santa Claus climbed up into the seat of the sled, puffing a little because he has gained some weight this winter, three black and white penguins waddled across the snow in front of the reindeer.

"Here, here, get out of the way, please," said Santa Claus importantly. Then he said, surprised:

"Why what are you penguins doing up at the North Pole anyway? You're supposed to be at the South Pole."

"We're on a vacation," said one of the penguins. "We're looking for Florida. Have you seen it anywhere?"

"Climb aboard, climb aboard," boomed Santa. "I'll drop you off there. But I must say this is the first time I ever picked up three

These Days

There is an historic side to Christmas and there is a religious side.

This year, the historic side is important to us because of the similarity of the first half century of the Christian era and our own times. History does not repeat itself, but human beings often make the same mistakes and give evidence of the same faults.

Power, wealth, luxury, the desecration of the home, over-emphasis of sex, ignorance of tradition, abuse of privilege, dishonesty and corruption in public life—these debase human character, breed discontent and lead to vast political and economic convulsions. Errors of judgment can be corrected; errors of character often leave permanent marks upon the times.

And who when Christ appeared in the Mediterranean world, a rottenness was eating the heart of the most powerful empire that the world had yet known and perhaps the most interesting empire of all time. Rome was then a sick empire—physically still beautiful; morally decayed as though consumed by cancer.

Men and women are essentially good and hope, for gracious and decent living, but they also tend to follow the fashions set by the important and the powerful. Thus, a vile and debased Nero could, from his exalted position, set the tone of the times. Only the strongest could resist his example; only the most moral dared protest his conduct.

Yet such moral men and women existed, as they do always, and when their day came, they risked their lives to speak of the truths of life—truths that are based on the morality which is the essence of God's law.

In his letter to the Romans, Paul, a Jew who had become the greatest Christian missionary, writes of the unspeakable ways of the Romans of his day. His description could, without change, fit the Washington of our day. And he asks:

"...Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? Thou that preachest a man should not steal, dost thou steal? Thou that sayest a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? Thou that abhorrest idols, dost thou commit sacrilege? Thou that makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonorest thou God? ..."

And having asked that, he spoke his message of life:

"Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good. Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another; not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer; distributing to the necessity of saints; given to hospitality."

"Bless them which persecute you: Bless, and curse not. Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep. Be of the same mind one toward another. Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits. Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men."

"Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: For it is written, vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink; for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head."

DIET AND HEALTH

Faulty Growth In Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST cases of dwarfing are caused by undernourishment. As a rule, people are ignorant of this fact, perhaps because we have been reading so much lately about the glands and how they produce dwarfs and giants.

Many parents have learned that a deficiency of the thyroid gland or pituitary gland can cause dwarfing. If their child then turns out to be extremely small, they usually think he must have some sort of glandular disturbance. However, the most frequent cause of dwarfing is malnutrition of one type or another.

Diet Deficiencies

What is the cause of such drastic undernourishment? Usually, it is not due to lack of food bulk, but to an under-supply of special materials needed for growth. Diet deficiencies are often seen in the poor and underprivileged. It is sad to have to recognize that there are children in this great country of ours who do not grow strong and healthy because they cannot get the right food to eat.

A different cause of undernourishment is seen in children who may have plenty to eat but are psychologically maladjusted. In many of these children are hidden feelings that their parents do not want them. Their home life may be very unhappy and lacking in harmony between parents, or between parents and children. The feelings and behavior of these children may interfere with their eating habits and nourishment, so much so that they actually become dwarfed.

It is important to try to find and solve any psychological problems in the home that may be the hidden cause of malnutrition.

(Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Infections of various kinds also cut down the appetite. Many times, a severe worm infection or stomach or intestinal trouble in a child may bring on dwarfing. Before deciding that a case of faulty growth is due to an eating disturbance, the doctor should make a thorough check for any infection of this type.

Children with bronchial asthma often suffer dwarfing due to poor nutrition. This breathing disorder is frequently due to an allergy, or oversensitivity to some special substance, one of which may be food. Many times, the child is given an extremely limited diet in the hope of avoiding the one substance causing the allergy.

Well-Balanced Diet

Experience has proved that most of these children do much better on a well-balanced diet, high in calories, and not limited too much because they might be allergic to something in their food.

Once we have discovered that a child has been dwarfed by poor nutrition, the thing to do is to place him on a diet high in proteins and calories.

Usually, it is also helpful to give large doses of extra vitamins. Vitamin B-12 is effective in helping the body use healthful food in order to grow. Extra supplies of the male hormone, testosterone, sometimes help to start growth in these dwarfed children.

V. M.: Is there any harm in taking synthetic vitamins instead of the natural vitamin product? Answer: No. The synthetic products are just as effective as the natural products.

SYNOPSIS
Donald Kent on his way from New York to his sister's home in suburban Greenwood, where he is assigned to teach a high school class, discovers lovely Anne Atwood, the local Parson's daughter. After four years' absence at college, Anne is returning to Greenwood. Will she be content to settle down, to endure the Parson's gentle poverty? Her mother, Constance Atwood, wonders and worries. Kenneth with her beloved mother's company. But Anne counts their frugal mode of life. Donald finds that his sister, Virginia Moore, and her husband, Philip, have been called away from home, so he makes himself known to their next door neighbor, Parson Atwood. Here he is warmly welcomed by the clergyman and his wife, and lovely, laughing Anne remains easily aloof.

CHAPTER FIVE
ANNE lay quietly between the cool smooth sheets of her bed. Outside, down near her pool, there was a grandfather frog whose deep bass bellow sounded occasionally through the stillness. Save for that the night was serene.

The pool, she was thinking. Never anything perfect. Never anything operating smoothly. She had known, of course, they would have to fill the basin with the hose but that, she had planned, could be done when no one was around. To have to leave the thing lying out there, visible all the time, just because they had been amateurs, just because they couldn't afford experts—

It's a little thing, and I shouldn't mind. But I do mind. Patches and poverty. I'm sick of it all! There was an avenue of escape open to her if she wanted to take it. With a little encouragement Joe Melch would ask her to be his wife. But—well, she didn't know. She didn't like to think about it. Joe was nobody she really wanted to marry. It was all right to date him but what she liked best about him was his car. And his beautiful home. And his pocket always full of money. Only none of that was him. She sighed faintly.

It would be easier if I went away somewhere, she told herself. Only how can I? Mother needs me here. This house is much too big for her, and she's tired. Anyway, what could I do? Unless I took some courses which I can't afford to take, there's nothing open for me but teaching. And I don't want to teach! Donald Kent, well, she had come to him in spite of herself. All evening she had been trying to forget him, but the memory was too sharp. The minute her eyes had met his above her mother's head she had had the strangest feeling she had ever known. She had felt her heart like a clock that, for no known reason and with complete suddenness, has come to a dead stop. Then, when it began going again, it was at a perfectly insane rate. It had embarrassed and angered her, but she had been utterly helpless, and it had only been by the greatest exertion of her will that she had made her voice come out as calm as it had.

"And I'm not sure now," she said, half aloud. And then, with another sigh, she turned on her side and composed herself for sleep.

The Parson stood alone under the stars. Unable, for some unknown reason, to sleep, and waiting until his wife's breathing assured him he would not disturb her, he had slipped out of bed, pulled his trousers and coat on over his pajamas, and, with his slippers slapping softly on every stair, had come forth into the night.

And what a night it was! One of surpassing splendor. With the deep, still pleasure that was always his at such a moment, his trained eyes sought and found old familiar constellations. "A thousand years in Thy sight are but as yesterday," he told himself, quoting the words of the Psalmist.

For a while longer he remained with his eyes on the beauty of the heavens above him, marvelling anew at the Great Intelligence that controlled all these distant bright and shining worlds, holding each to its appointed course by His established Law. How could one ever doubt, he wondered, that there, invisible yet clearly visible in that great and glittering panoply, was the Father of the Universe? Periodically religion revived, and with each upsurge nations were lifted to a higher spiritual level than before.

A world community is in our hearts, he thought, but not yet in our wills. It will come, however, it will come. And with it man's destiny of spiritual evolution.

"Guide me, oh, Lord. Show me the way to be Thy humble servant. Give me light that I may fulfill the task to which I have been appointed. Help me to lead my people to follow in Thy footsteps and unite our hearts with Thy will so that we may know fellowship with Thee and the peace and love that passeth all understanding."

Constance was awake as he took his place beside her again, but she only said, "Is it a wonderful night?"

"Wonderful. Wonderful." There was a little silence. Presently out of it she spoke again. "It was because he's a teacher."

"What?" "That's why she was so cool to him. I feel sure. Why she went away early. Because he's a teacher. A public servant."

"Oh." He was paying no attention. His mind was elsewhere. For a moment she debated bringing up the problem of Anne's future before him.

Men and women are essentially good and hope, for gracious and decent living, but they also tend to follow the fashions set by the important and the powerful. Thus, a vile and debased Nero could, from his exalted position, set the tone of the times. Only the strongest could resist his example; only the most moral dared protest his conduct.

Yet such moral men and women existed, as they do always, and when their time came, they risked their lives to speak of the truths of life—truths that are based on the morality which is the essence of God's law.

In his letter to the Romans, Paul, a Jew who had become the greatest Christian missionary, writes of the unspeakable ways of the Romans of his day. His description could, without change, fit the Washington of our day. And he asks:

"... Thou therefore which teachest another, teachest thou not thyself? Thou that preachest a man should not steal, dost thou steal? Thou that sayest a man should not commit adultery, dost thou commit adultery? Thou that abhorrest idols, dost thou commit sacrilege? Thou that makest thy boast of the law, through breaking the law dishonourest thou God? ..."

And having asked that, he spoke his message of life:

"Let love be without dissimulation. Abhor that which is evil; cleave to that which is good. Be kindly affectioned one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another; not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer; distributing to the necessity of saints; given to hospitality."

"Bless them which persecute you: Bless, and curse not. Rejoice with them that do rejoice, and weep with them that weep. Be of the same mind one toward another. Mind not high things, but condescend to men of low estate. Be not wise in your own conceits. Recompense to no man evil for evil. Provide things honest in the sight of all men. If it be possible, as much as lieth in you, live peaceably with all men."

"Dearly beloved, avenge not yourselves, but rather give place unto wrath: For it is written, vengeance is mine; I will repay, saith the Lord. Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst, give him drink; for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire upon his head."

DIET AND HEALTH

Faulty Growth In Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MOST cases of dwarfing are caused by undernourishment. As a rule, people are ignorant of this fact, perhaps because we have been reading so much lately about the glands and how they produce dwarfs and giants.

Many parents have learned that a deficiency of the thyroid gland or pituitary gland can cause dwarfing. If their child then turns out to be extremely small, they usually think he must have some sort of glandular disturbance. However, the most frequent cause of dwarfing is malnutrition of one type or another.

Diet Deficiencies

What is the cause of such drastic undernourishment? Usually, it is not due to lack of food bulk, but to an under-supply of special materials needed for growth. Diet deficiencies are often seen in the poor and underprivileged. It is sad to have to recognize that there are children in this great country of ours who do not grow strong and healthy because they cannot get the right food to eat. A different cause of undernourishment is seen in children who may have plenty to eat but are psychologically maladjusted. In many of these children are hidden feelings that their parents do not want them. Their home life may be very unhappy and lacking in harmony between parents, or between parents and children. The feelings and behavior of these children may interfere with their eating habits and nourishment, so much so that they actually become dwarfed.

It is important to try to find and solve any psychological problems in the home that may be the hidden cause of malnutrition.

(Copyright, 1951, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Infections of various kinds also cut down the appetite. Many times, a severe worm infection or stomach or intestinal trouble in a child may bring on dwarfing. Before deciding that a case of faulty growth is due to an eating disturbance, the doctor should make a thorough check for any infection of this type.

Children with bronchial asthma often suffer dwarfing due to poor nutrition. This breathing disorder is frequently due to an allergy, or oversensitivity to some special substance, one of which may be food. Many times, the child is given an extremely limited diet in the hope of avoiding the one substance causing the allergy.

Well-Balanced Diet

Experience has proved that most of these children do much better on a well-balanced diet, high in calories, and not limited too much because they might be allergic to something in their food. Once we have discovered that a child has been dwarfed by poor nutrition, the thing to do is to place him on a diet high in proteins and calories.

Usually, it is also helpful to give large doses of extra vitamins. Vitamin B-12 is effective in helping the body use healthful food in order to grow. Extra supplies of the male hormone, testosterone, sometimes help to start growth in these dwarfed children.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

V. M.: Is there any harm in taking synthetic vitamins instead of the natural vitamin product?
Answer: No. The synthetic products are just as effective as the natural products.

Donald Kent on his way from New York to his sister's home in suburban Crestwood, where he is assigned to teach a high school class, discovers lovely Anne Atwood, the local Parson's daughter. After four years' absence at college, Anne is returning to Crestwood. Will she be content to settle down, to endure the Manger's gloomy poverty? Her mother, Constance Atwood, wonders and worries. Reunion with her beloved parents is happy indeed, but Anne resents their frugal mode of life. Donald Kent, the sister, Virginia Moore, and her husband, Philip, have been called away briefly from home, so he makes himself known to their next door neighbor, Parson Atwood. Here he is warmly welcomed by the clergyman and his wife, but lovely, beautiful Anne remains coldly aloof.

CHAPTER FIVE
ANNE lay quietly between the cool smooth sheets of her bed. Outside, down near her pool, there was a grandfaded frog whose deep bass bellow sounded occasionally through the stillness. Save for that the night was serene.

The pool, she was thinking. Never anything perfect. Never anything operating smoothly. She had known, of course, they would have to fill the basin with the hose but that, she had planned, could be done when no one was around. To have to leave the thing lying out there, visible all the time, just because they had been amateurs, just because they couldn't afford experts—

It's a little thing, and I shouldn't mind. But I do mind. Patches and poverty. I'm sick of it all. There was an avenue of escape open to her if she wanted to take it. With a little encouragement Joe Melick would ask her to be his wife. But—well, she didn't know. She didn't like to think about it. Joe was nobody she really wanted to marry. It was all right to date him but what she liked best about him was his car. And his beautiful home. And his pocket always full of money. Only none of that was him. She sighed faintly.

It would be easier if I went away somewhere, she told herself. Only how can I? Mother needs me here. This house is much too big for her, and she's tired. Anyway, what could I do? Unless I took some courses which I can't afford to take, there's nothing open for me but teaching. And I don't want to teach.

Donald Kent. Well, she had come to him in spite of herself. All evening she had been trying to forget him, but the memory was too sharp. The minute her eyes had met his above her mother's head she had had the strangest feeling she had ever known. She had felt her heart like a clock that, for no known reason and with complete suddenness, has come to a dead stop. Then, when it began going again, it was at a perfectly insane rate. It had embarrassed and angered her, but she had been utterly helpless, and it was wonderful. Wonderful. There was a little silence. Presently out of it she spoke again. "It was because he's a teacher."

"What?"

"That's why she was so cool to him, I feel sure. Why she went away early. Because he's a teacher. A public servant."

"Oh."

He was paying no attention. His mind was elsewhere. For a moment she debated bringing up the problem of Anne's future before.

Santa Claus Is On His Way

Editor's note: three years ago, Stal Boyle, who has no children of his own but god-children by the dozens, wrote a story he would like to read on Christmas Eve to his own kids if the Lord had allowed him any. It is hereby repeated for the benefit of any dad having trouble getting junior to get into bed where he belongs.

NORTH POLE—Up—He's off! Santa Claus is on his way at last!

The jolly old saint and his famous reindeer are zooming through the Arctic skies right now, heading for the American border. He'll reach it tonight.

The Northern Lights switched on to a clear steady green—the "go ahead" signal. And the Royal Canadian Mounted Police sent Santa this message:

"We are clearing all air lanes in your path, old boy. There is no speed limit for you tonight. The sky is yours. Go as fast as you like. Good luck!"

And Santa Claus needed that wide, clear road in the sky. For his big red sled was placed so full of gifts it overflowed. It looked like a hay rack zooming through the crisp air.

"Oh, dear, oh dear," worried

Santa, just before the takeoff. "I do hope none of these presents fall out and bean some innocent rabbit down below. I believe this must be the heaviest load I've had in twenty years."

"What is he fretting about?" whispered Dunder to Vixen. "He's only riding in that sled. We have to pull it."

Vixen laughed so hard the bells on her harness tinkled in merry music. And all the other reindeer laughed, too.

As Santa Claus climbed up into the seat of the sled, puffing a little because he has gained some weight this winter, three black and white penguins waddled across the snow in front of the reindeer.

"Here, here, get out of the way, please," said Santa Claus importantly. Then he said, surprised:

"Why what are you penguins doing up at the North Pole anyway? You're supposed to be at the South Pole."

"We're on a vacation," said one of the penguins. "We're looking for Florida. Have you seen it anywhere?"

"Climb aboard, climb aboard," boomed Santa. "I'll drop you off there. But I must say this is the first time I ever picked up three hitchhikers wearing tuxedos."

Just then Mrs. Santa Claus came running out waving a long piece of paper.

"You almost forgot your list of good children, she said."

"Never mind," said Santa, "I don't need it. This year I am going to give a present to every little boy and girl, good or bad. The bad ones will feel sorry then, because they know they don't deserve a nice present. I'll make 'em try harder to be good next year."

"That isn't according to Hoyle," said Mrs. Claus, who likes to play bridge. "But it does make sense, you old sofie."

Santa stood up to crack his whip in the air—the signal to be off. But then he heard a small voice crying:

"Wait, please wait."

It was Cluny, Santa's favorite little elf. The other elves gossiping about Cluny and said she was clumsy at making toys. But Santa knew it was only because she was so young. He liked her because she had a good heart.

"Here," said the tiny elf, holding up a small shiny figure.

"What's this? What's this?" grumbled Santa. "You're too late. My pack is already loaded."

"It is only my present to the world," said Cluny. "I made it at night in my room—all by myself."

Santa took the little figure from her hands. It was a beautiful angel with butterfly wings and a robe of purest white. In her hand the angel held a small magic wand.

"It is the Angel of Peace," explained Cluny.

"Why Cluny," said Santa, "this is better than all the other gifts put together. I'll see that your angel waves her wand for one day at least over every home in the land."

And he picked up Cluny and gave her a big whisker—ticky kiss on her cheek. Then he picked up his long whip again and cracked it sharply in the frosty air.

"Ho, ho, ho, here we go!" he roared. "Ho, ho! Here we go!"

The eight reindeer leaped forward and the big sled began sliding through the snow. Faster, faster, faster, faster—and then they were off the ground and into the air.

Santa was on his way. And tonight, if you go to bed, he will come to your house, wherever you are.

White And Red Poinsettias Used As Decorations For Ankrom-Allison Wedding

Beneath a candlelight wedding arch, flanked by palms and covered with white and red poinsettias, Miss Evelyn Maxine Ankrom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ankrom of Williamsport, became the bride of Pfc. Charles C. Allison, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Allison of East Mound street.

The rites were read by the Rev. Donald Disbennett at 7:30 p. m., Dec. 9, in Darbyville Methodist church.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of white marquisette over bridal satin, fashioned with a molded bodice, long sleeves, coming to points over her hands and a sweeping cathedral train. A fingertip veil fell from a Juliet cap and she carried a fan bouquet of white poinsettias centered with a purple orchid.

Matron of honor was a sister of the bride, Mrs. John Fleming of Mt. Sterling. Maid of honor was Miss Beverly Haller of Columbus and bridal attendants, both sisters of the former Miss Ankrom, were Mrs. Don Rasor of Columbus and Miss Phyllis Ankrom of Williamsport.

Attendants were wearing gowns styled identically with off-the-shoulder fitted bodices and full pleated skirts. Mrs. Fleming's gown was yellow taffeta and the other three attendants were wearing Nile green. All wore headbands of holly and poinsettias and white mitts. Their bouquets were fashioned like wedding rings of holly and poinsettias.

Best man was Pfc. Gail Alkire of Williamsport, now serving with the bridegroom in the U. S. Marine Corp. Guests were ushered to their seats by the groom's uncle, Russell Lane of East Main street and a cousin, Charles Styers of North Pickaway street.

Preceding the ceremony, nuptial music was played by Mrs. Lyle Ingman and vocal music was by Kenneth Reid.

Friends and relatives of the new Mr. and Mrs. Allison were invited to a reception held, in the home of the bride's parents. A three-tiered wedding cake centered the bridal table which was decorated with an arrangement of holly and poinsettias and tall red tapers.

Reception hostesses were Mrs. June Ankrom and Mrs. Jean Ankrom of Circleville, Mrs. Mildred Donohoe of Orient, Miss Mary Murray of Groveport and Miss Ann Logsdon of Ashville.

Mrs. Ankrom chose a black crepe dress with black accessories and a corsage of white carnations for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Allison was attired in blue silk with black accessories. She also wore a corsage of white carnations.

When the newly married couple left on a short wedding trip, the bride was wearing an aqua wool jersey dress with matching brown accessories and the orchid from her bridal corsage.

A graduate of Monroe Township highschool, the bride is employed by Industrial Commission of Ohio and will reside with her parents while the bridegroom is stationed at Parris Island, S. C. with the U. S. Marine Corp.

Grid Bowl Battlers Set For Jousts

Last-Minute Preps Are Scheduled By Contesting Coaches

By Associated Press
 They are starting to stir up things in various bowls (football bowls, that is) across the country. Here are thumbnail sketches of some of the activities:

HOUSTON, Tex.—It will be all work and no play for Kentucky's Cotton Bowl bound football team in five days of training here. Paul Bryans hopes this will cause the reverse of the old saying about making a dull boy.

Kentucky will go to Dallas by train Friday to get in a last couple of licks of practice at the site of their New Year's Day meeting with the Southwest Conference champion, Texas Christian University.

PASADENA—The University of Illinois football team watched the Los Angeles Rams play the Cleveland Rams for the pro title Sunday. The Illini paid their way into the game and they are going to pay again today.

Ray Eliot's squad was called out for a morning workout at 10 o'clock. Another drill was carded for 2 p. m. They meet Stanford in the run for the Roses.

Decathlon champion Bob Mathias was due back in the Stanford lineup in a brief workout today before the Indians head south for the Rose Bowl game. The fullback has been out with a pulled leg muscle.

TAMPA, Fla.—The Brooke Army Medical Center squad, about 50 strong, is due here today for the sixth annual Cigar Bowl football game.

The San Antonio, Tex., team plays the Camp Lejeune Marines from North Carolina in the bowl game Saturday night.

NEW ORLEANS—Thousands of sports fans will begin filling this old city Wednesday on the eve of Sugar Bowl week, a sportsman dream that includes everything from yachting to football.

Tennessee, the national champions after getting the top spot in the AP's final poll, is arriving Wednesday at Baton Rouge, La., and will work out at Louisiana State University.

It will be a test of single wing power, Tennessee-style, against the split T, a Maryland specialty.

MIAMI—Coach Andy Gustafson called his University of Miami football squad to the practice field at 2 p. m. today to get them accustomed to playing at that hour.

Most practices have been held later in the afternoon or at night. Gustafson named a 49-man squad to make the trip to Jacksonville for the Gator Bowl, where the Hurricanes will tangle with the Clemson Tigers in a repeat performance of the 1951 Orange Bowl game when Clemson eked out a 15-14 decision.

MONTGOMERY, Ala.—Full scale scrimmage sessions were in store of Blue-Gray gridders this Christmas Eve as rival coaches pulled out the stops to round their attacks into precision style.

Limited scrimmage sessions were staged Sunday with both squads emphasizing passing.

SAN FRANCISCO—The East half of the Shrine East-West football game Saturday holds its first—and last—all out scrimmage today, while a bruised West squad takes it easy.

The scrimmage is expected to key up the striking potential of such Eastern stars as Dick Kazmaier of Princeton, John Petibon of Notre Dame, Jim Hammond of Wisconsin and Bill Putich of Michigan.

MIAMI—North and South College All-Stars planned final light workouts today for their Shrine charity football game in the Orange Bowl Tuesday night.

A crowd of about 40,000 is expected to watch Yale Coach Herman Hickman's Yankees tangle with Miami Coach Andy Gustafson's Rebels in the fourth annual game sponsored by the Shrine for the crippled children's fund.

Lancaster Hands Tigers 5th Loss In Row, 46-43

Circleville's Tiger basketball team ran its string of losses to five straight Saturday night in Lancaster when it lost a narrow 46-43 decision to the Golden Gales.

The Tiger reserve team broke out of its lethargy during the evening, however, scoring its first win in five starts to date with a 38-26 count over the junior Gales.

In the varsity engagement, Circleville was behind in the scoring column all of the way, although rallying in the final period to close the gap to within the final three-point difference.

Both teams were equally potent from the field in the match, each squad racking up 15 field goals.

AND THE Tiger team outshot the Gales from the free-throw line, where the game was decided. The CHS'ers connected on 59 percent of their free throw attempts while Lancaster hit for only 49 percent.

At the same time, the Tigers gave the Gales 31 chances at the charity line by committing 25 personal fouls while Lancaster gave the locals only 22 free shots resulting from 20 personals.

Circleville's scoring was well-balanced during the fracas, although Forward Dud Morris paced the locals with eight points. Lancaster's effort was headed by Charles Ellinger with 15.

Tiger reservists came on to win during the preliminary contest of the evening after overcoming a 10-9 first period deficit.

By halftime, the Tiger reservists boosted themselves into a 21-16 lead over the junior Gales, while extending their lead to 32-21 going into the final frame.

DAVE GREENO won scoring laurels during the fracas with a total of 17 points for his Tiger team. Lancaster's D. Felipe and Vance paced the junior Gales with seven points each.

Next tilt on tap for the Tiger varsity will be Thursday night, when they begin a two-day holiday cage carnival in Pickaway-Fairgrounds Coliseum.

The Tigers will meet Holy Rosary of Columbus at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the carnival opener, while Ironton and Hamilton Township will clash in the second game at about 8:30 p. m.

Friday's carnival windup calls for the losers in Thursday's games to meet at 7:30 p. m. and the winners to meet at about 8:30 p. m.

Rams Chalk Up 24-17 Pro Grid Win Over Browns

Tom Fears Snags Long Pass, Races Into Paydirt As West Coasters Finally Win Crown

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24—Pro football's three master passers met in Memorial Coliseum Sunday, but two of them ganged up on the third. As a result, the Los Angeles Rams are the new champions of the National Football League.

It was just about a standoff between Otto Graham of Cleveland's Browns and Bob Waterfield of the Rams. Between them, they had fashioned a 17-17 tie in the waning minutes of a great ball game.

Then young Norman Van Brocklin, the Flying Dutchman from Oregon, took over from Waterfield. And on one great toss, gathered in by Tommy Fears for a net gain of 73 yards, the Rams busted a long-standing jinx wide open and whipped the Browns, 24-17.

It was the Rams' first victory over Cleveland in five tries, and their first championship since 1945—although they have been in the playoff three years running.

Despite a bruising clash which left 59,475 spectators limp, the Rams still had a little left—enough to pack their 275-pound coach, Jumbo Joe Stydahar, off the field on their shoulders.

"GREAT, GREAT, great guys," muttered the mammoth one. It was a game full of highlights and tense moments. The record crowd saw passing wizardry, fine running, a 52-yard field goal, a touchdown called back by a penalty, just about everything a football game can offer.

But the payoff pitch was the big play of the day. Cleveland had just tied it up, and Van Brocklin had stepped in to give the tiring Waterfield a rest. With the ball on his own 27-yard mark, the lanky quarterback dropped back. He had perfect protection as Fears raced downfield, then veered toward the sideline.

Two Browns backs were waiting, but Fears wasn't to be denied. He went into the air, took the ball away from both defenders, and came down at full speed. The goal was still nearly 40 yards away, but he made it without breaking stride.

"That Fears," said Cleveland Coach Paul Brown afterward, "was the difference today." And Brown had a point. Tommy took three other passes during the afternoon, for a total of 146 yards.

Grid Bowl Battlers Set For Jousts

Last-Minute Preps Are Scheduled By Contesting Coaches

By Associated Press

They are starting to stir up things in various bowls (football bowls, that is) across the country. Here are thumbnail sketches of some of the activities:

HOUSTON, Tex.—It will be all work and no play for Kentucky's Cotton Bowl bound football team in five days of training here. Paul Bryans hopes this will cause the reverse of the old saying about making a dull boy.

Kentucky will go to Dallas by train Friday to get in a last couple of licks of practice at the site of their New Year's Day meeting with the Southwest Conference champion, Texas Christian University.

PASADENA—The University of Illinois football team watched the Los Angeles Rams play the Cleveland Rams for the pro title Sunday. The Illini paid their way into the game and they are going to pay again today.

Ray Elliot's squad was called out for a morning workout at 10 o'clock. Another drill was carded for 2 p. m. They meet Stanford for the Rose Bowl.

Decathlon champion Bob Mathias was due back in the Stanford lineup in a brief workout today before the Indians head south for the Rose Bowl game. The fullback has been out with a pulled leg muscle.

TAMPA, Fla.—The Brooke Army Medical Center squad, about 50 strong, is due here today for the sixth annual Cigar Bowl football game.

The San Antonio, Tex., team plays the Camp Lejeune Marines from North Carolina in the bowl game Saturday night.

NEW ORLEANS—Thousands of sports fans will begin filling this old city Wednesday on the eve of Sugar Bowl week, a sportsman dream that includes everything from yachting to football.

Tennessee, the national champions after getting the top spot in the AP's final poll, is arriving Wednesday at Baton Rouge, La., and will work out at Louisiana State University.

It will be a test of single wing power, Tennessee-style, against the split T, a Maryland specialty.

MIAMI—Coach Andy Gustafson called his University of Miami football squad to the practice field at 2 p. m. today to get them accustomed to playing at that hour.

Most practices have been held later in the afternoon or at night. Gustafson named a 49-man squad to make the trip to Jacksonville for the Gator Bowl, where the Hurricanes will tangle with the Clemson Tigers in a repeat performance of the 1951 Orange Bowl game when Clemson eked out a 15-14 decision.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Full scale scrimmage sessions were in store of Blue-Gray gridders this Christmas Eve as rival coaches pulled out the stops to round their attacks into precision style.

Limited scrimmage sessions were staged Sunday with both squads emphasizing passing.

SAN FRANCISCO—The East half of the Shrine East-West football game Saturday holds its first—and last—all out scrimmage today, while a bruised West squad takes it easy.

The scrimmage is expected to key up the striking potential of such Eastern stars as Dick Kazmaier of Princeton, John Petibon of Notre Dame, Jim Hammond of Wisconsin and Bill Putich of Michigan.

MIAMI—North and South College All-Stars planned final light workouts today for their Shrine charity football game in the Orange Bowl Tuesday night.

A crowd of about 40,000 is expected to watch Yale Coach Herman Hickman's Yankees tangle with Miami Coach Andy Gustafson's Rebels in the fourth annual game sponsored by the Shrine for the crippled children's fund.

Rams Chalk Up 24-17 Pro Grid Win Over Browns

Tom Fears Snags Long Pass, Races Into Paydirt As West Coasters Finally Win Crown

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 24—(AP)—Pro football's three master passers met in Memorial Coliseum Sunday, but two of them ganged up on the third. As a result, the Los Angeles Rams are the new champions of the National Football League.

"That Fears," said Cleveland Coach Paul Brown afterward, "was the difference today." And Brown had a point. Tommy took three other passes during the afternoon, for a total of 146 yards.

A lot happened before the climax. The Rams tallied first, after a scoreless first quarter, Fullback Dick Hoerner going over from the one after a 55-yard drive.

Lou Groza, the field goal kicking machine, had missed a beat in the first quarter, booting wide from 19 yards out. But from 52 yards away, he was high and true, and the count was 7-3.

IT TOPPED the previous record in a playoff game, 42 yards set jointly by Ward Cuff of the New York Giants in 1938, and tied the next year by Ernie Smith of Green Bay.

Graham put the favored visitors out in front by half-time with a sudden passing spurt. He hit three times in as many tries, the third for 17 yards and a touchdown to Dub Jones, and the teams left the field with Cleveland on top, 10-7.

But Graham was the victim as the Rams scored again. All day long, he was the target of Ram defensive ends Larry Brink and Andy Robustelli, and the fans often marvelled that he got his tosses away at all.

In the third quarter, he faded back with the ball on his own 35. Brink hit him hard, and the ball bounded away. Robustelli scooped it up, dropped it, got it again and went to within a yard of the goal before he was brought down.

Deacon Dan Towler hit the line three times before he could get across.

In the fourth period, the Rams twice more got to the one-yard line. The first time they were held by the Browns, the second time they were held by the Rams.

Holder Is Named Prexy For Local Stock Car Club

A Circleville stock car racing club has been formed for hot-rodding here next Spring.

Dock Holder of East Mill street has been elected president of the Circleville club, one of four central Ohio outfits expected to participate in Spring racing.

Other officers are E. H. Frazier, vice-president; Jack Beck, secretary-treasurer; and Russell Lutz, director.

Similar clubs are being formed in Lancaster, Chillicothe and Washington, C. H., with plans to have racing in one of the four cities every two weeks when the program begins.

Fain Is Awarded Batting Crown

CHICAGO, Dec. 24 (AP)—First Baseman Ferris Fain of the Philadelphia Athletics, who has been offered as trade bait by Manager Jimmy Dykes, is the official 1951 American League batting champion with .344.

The Athletics, who finished sixth last season, also had the league's homerun and runs-batted-in king, Gus Zernial.

Zernial was landed by Philadelphia after the campaign was two weeks old in part of a three-club swap that moved Orestes Minofo to the Chicago White Sox.

Big Gus, who left much to be desired when he was with the Pale Hose, caught fire under Dykes and banged out 33 homers and drove in 129 runs.

The Comiskey, however, were entirely satisfied with the deal by the sensational doings of rookie Minofo. The Cuban batted .326 to finish second in hitting to the 29-year-old Fain and help the fourth spot White Sox take the team swat crown with .270.

Minofo also led the circuit in belting triples, with 14, and in stolen bases, with 31.

Fain, a left-handed swinger, bagged the batting title with the best percentage in his baseball career. He was inactive almost a month with an injury and went to bat officially only 425 times, barely making the 400-AB minimum needed for title consideration. Fain, a native of San Antonio, Tex., was first Athletic hitter to win the bat title since Jimmy Foxx did it with a .356 in 1933.

Ag Experts Urging War Against Rats

Rural Losses Said Creating Problem In Food Production

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24 (AP)—Uncle Sam is urging farmers to declare an aggressive war against rats.

The rural rodent, says the agriculture Department, is eating enough grain to create a serious food production problem. The agency estimates rats alone eat about 250 million bushels of grain annually. That is nearly 10 per cent of the quantity farmers feed annually to produce the nation's supply of pork, beef, poultry and eggs.

The department also estimates between 300 million and 600 million bushels of grain are lost each year to insects.

"Complete prevention of losses by rodents and insects," the department says, "would save more than enough grain to eliminate the prospective grain deficits during the next few years and greatly reduce efforts needed otherwise to increase production."

WHILE CONCEDED complete elimination of such losses is not possible, the department says farmers can utilize rat and insect control measures which would greatly reduce these losses.

The plea for a rat extermination campaign is made at a time when the nation is using grains—particularly livestock feed grains—at a greater rate than they are being produced.

Unless the situation is changed, farmers will have to cut down on livestock and poultry production. Such a development would mean less meat and eggs for city consumers—and possibly higher prices. So the urbanite, as well as the farmer, has a stake in the rat campaign.

of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil, but overcome evil with good."

This is, indeed a message for our year 1952, when so many of our own people have become restless in the climate of deceit, confusion and infamy that surrounds us.

We are, truly, a wonderful nation. We have understood pity, compassion, charity as no other family of the human race. As we build the material wealth of our nation, we erected out of our hearts wonderful institutions of learning, of religion, of health, of charity. We have not stinted friend or foe. We have forgiven our enemies and dealt kindly with our friends. We have lived in families and tried to form our lives in the spirit of God's law.

But we have made a detour on the road of life. It is still only a detour; it must not be built into a thoroughfare to nowhere and nothing.

God beckons us to his way—and to his way we must return.

I wish for all my readers a Holy Christmas, joyful and happy, with God's blessing.

Priests Assigned To Philippines

MARYKNOLL, N. Y., Dec. 24.—Nine Roman Catholic priests, freed from jail by the Chinese Communists, are being assigned to missionary duty in the Philippine Islands.

They will constitute the first group of Maryknollers going to the islands since the war. Others are to be assigned in the near future because of what was described as a "severe shortage" of priests in the Philippines.

Some of the nine, expelled from South China, are now in Hong Kong and some are in the United States.

Yule Buying Increases Retail Sales

Christmas buying accounted for an increase in Pickaway County retail business for the week ending Dec. 8, according to a report of sales tax stamps sold here.

The report showed a sale of $7,778.56 during the first week in December, compared to $6,481.40 for the corresponding week in 1950, a rise of $1,297.16.

Throughout the state collections for the week ending Dec. 8 were higher than during the same week last year in food, apparel, automotive, furniture, building, chain store and miscellaneous categories, but lower in general store classification.

IN COUNTIES neighboring Pickaway collections for the week as compared to last year, were as follows, with the 1951 figures listed first:

Fairfield, $13,447.74 and $15,621.50; Fayette, $7,511.56 and $9,729.85; Franklin, $271,641.81 and $236,938.82; Hocking, $4,959.21 and $6,048.37; Madison, $6,782.57 and $5,886.12; Ross, $11,912.77 and $17,464.21.

Maybe Commie Nameplates To Aid Scrap Drive

WASHINGTON, Dec. 24.—Nameplates have been stolen from the Egyptian and Chilean embassies as well as from the Russian embassy and Romanian legation.

The State Department has expressed regret to officials of all four countries and Washington police were asked to investigate in each case.

State Department Press Officer Lincoln White said the Egyptian and Chilean embassies reported orally to the department but did not protest, like Russian and Romanian officials did.

White laughed off a suggestion that the thefts resulted from the current campaign to collect scrap metal to meet defense needs.

Asked whether the State Department agreed with the Soviet complaint that the thefts were the work of "unknown hooligans," White said he did not know the precise meaning of the term as used by the communists.

Piqua Gas Line Blows Up Sunday

PIQUA, Dec. 24.—An eight-inch gas line exploded four miles north of Piqua Sunday afternoon, tearing a 30-foot section of pipe to pieces and disrupting gas service to some 20,000 residents.

There was no fire, however, and no one was injured in the mishap. Gas service was restored about eight hours after the blast and normal pressure was expected Monday.

The break came in an Ohio Fuel Gas Co. line through which gas is distributed by the Dayton Power and Light Co.

Ozark Farmers Pondering Silver Moon Mysteries

NEOSHO, Mo., Dec. 24.—Who—or what—is behind the Silver Moon mystery?

Baffled authorities, seeking the answer, acknowledge they have made little progress in solving a series of weird events in the nearby Ozark farm community of Silver Moon.

Here are some of the things that have occurred:

Feed has been stolen from barns and tossed over the fields.

Motor car tires slashed, parts taken from cars, anti-freeze drained from radiators.

Switches cut off cow's tails.

Cattle turned out of pastures.

Harness was stolen from one barn and returned mysteriously later.

Owen Allen, 31-year-old bachelor farmer, stripped, bound and gagged twice in three days. Friends found him tied to his bed both mornings with bailing wire.

He told authorities both incidents occurred as he went to his barn to milk the cows. He said he knew of no reason for the attacks by three men who threw a gunny sack over his head, bound him and carried him into his house.

County Prosecutor George Henry says he can find no reason for the strange events.

But the farmers in the area are hoping for a quick solution to the mystery of Silver Moon.

Ohio GI Is Hurt

U.S. Business Inventories Its Position

Plus And Minus Signs Both Studied In 1952 Picture

NEW YORK, Dec. 24.—Business toted up a profit and loss statement today to show both the strength and weakness of its position.

On the plus side was the report business outlays for new plant and equipment in the next three months will top the like period at the start of 1951 by 18 per cent.

The Securities and Exchange Commission and the Department of Commerce joined to estimate that in the first quarter of 1952 business will spend nearly $5.75 billion on expansion.

The biggest expenditures will be by defense-connected industries. But the non-durable goods makers are planning to spend about 20 per cent more than they did a year ago, apparently believing that inflation is here to stay.

ON THE MINUS side, however, is the fear of a steel strike hanging over industry. This would knock many brave plans into a cocked hat. And if John L. Lewis' Mine Workers also threaten a strike later in the spring, the industrial hopes would be further set back.

In retail trade, the plus and minus signs are also crowded. Dun & Bradstreet declares today "the dollar volume of retail trade reached a new all-time high in the week ended this Wednesday."

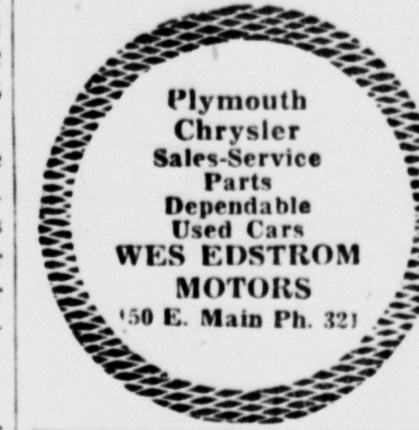

Against that is the Federal Reserve Board's report that department store sales last week fell four per cent below sales in the similar week a year ago.

Economists trying to reconcile the two reports conclude that chain store and apparel store sales are rising, and suburban stores are doing better comparatively than the big city department stores.

TV dealers say many stores are doing twice as much business today as they did four weeks ago. The National Retail Furniture Association says furniture store sales in November topped the 1950 month by 11 per cent. Not since February have sales topped a year ago.

But against these plus signs, are official reports that industrial production has slipped below its peak and shows signs of weakening further before defense production pushes it up again.

Many factories report new orders are still dropping and backlogs are lower. Some think this will continue, in civilian goods industries, through the first quarter of 1952.

Piqua Gas Line Blows Up Sunday

PIQUA, Dec. 24—(AP)—An eight-inch gas line exploded four miles north of Piqua Sunday afternoon, tearing a 30-foot section of pipe to pieces and disrupting gas service to some 20,000 residents.

There was no fire, however, and no one was injured in the mishap. Gas service was restored after eight hours after the blast and normal pressure was expected Monday.

The break came in an Ohio Fuel Gas Co. line through which gas is distributed by the Dayton Power and Light Co.

You Don't Have To Be Crazy, But It Helps

There is an old saying: "You don't have to be crazy to be a newspaperman, but it helps."

At least—

Monday morning about 4:30 the following exchange appeared on the Associated Press wire which serves the Circleville headquarters of Galvin Wire Service which, in turn, provides this newspaper with world, national and state news:

Is this channel clear please?

Always is (CO (Columbus Office of AP) on lunch.

Why don't someone tell me these things?

Maybe you didn't ask.

True.

Well?

Deep subject.

Ozark Farmers Pondering Silver Moon Mysteries

NEOSHO, Mo., Dec. 24—(AP)—Who—or what—is behind the Silver Moon mystery?

Baffled authorities, seeking the answer, acknowledge they have made little progress in solving a series of weird events in the nearby Ozark farm community of Silver Moon.

Here are some of the things that have occurred:

Feed has been stolen from barns and tossed over the fields.

Motor car tires slashed, parts taken from cars, anti-freeze drained from radiators.

Switches cut off cow's tails.

Cattle turned out of pastures.

Harness was stolen from one barn and returned mysteriously later.

Owen Allen, 31-year-old bachelor farmer, stripped, bound and gagged twice in three days. Friends found him tied to his bed both mornings with bailing wire.

He told authorities both incidents occurred as he went to his barn to milk the cows. He said he knew of no reason for the attacks by three men who threw a gunny sack over his head, bound him and carried him into his house.

County Prosecutor George Henry says he can find no reason for the strange events.

But the farmers in the area are hoping for a quick solution to the mystery of Silver Moon.

U.S. Business Inventories Its Position

Plus And Minus Signs Both Studied In 1952 Picture

NEW YORK, Dec. 24—(AP)—Business toted up a profit and loss statement today to show both the strength and weakness of its position.

On the plus side was the report business outlays for new plant and equipment in the next three months will top the like period at the start of 1951 by 18 per cent.

The Securities and Exchange Commission and the Department of Commerce joined to estimate that in the first quarter of 1952 business will spend nearly $5.75 billion on expansion.

The biggest expenditures will be by defense-connected industries. But the non-durable goods makers are planning to spend about 20 per cent more than they did a year ago, apparently believing that inflation is here to stay.

ON THE MINUS side, however, is the fear of a steel strike hanging over industry. This would knock many brave plans into a cocked hat. And if John L. Lewis' Mine Workers also threaten a strike later in the spring, the industrial hopes would be further set back.

In retail trade, the plus and minus signs are also crowded. Dun & Bradstreet declares today "the dollar volume of retail trade reached a new all-time high in the week ended this Wednesday."

Against that is the Federal Reserve Board's report that department store sales last week fell four per cent below sales in the similar week a year ago.

Economists trying to reconcile the two reports conclude that chain store and apparel store sales are rising, and suburban stores are doing better comparatively than the big city department stores.

TV dealers say many stores are doing twice as much business today as they did four weeks ago. The National Retail Furniture Association says furniture store sales in November topped the 1950 month by 11 per cent. Not since February have sales topped a year ago.

But against these plus signs, are official reports that industrial production has slipped below its peak and shows signs of weakening further before defense production pushes it up again.

Many factories report new orders are still dropping and backlogs are lower. Some think this will continue, in civilian goods industries, through the first quarter of 1952.

Gilbert To Run Against Ex-Boss

COLUMBUS, Dec. 24—(AP)—Jesse J. Gilbert of Columbus has announced he will run against his former boss for the Democratic nomination for secretary of state.

Gilbert was assistant to Former Secretary of State Charles F. Sweeney of Wakeman during 1949 and 1950. Sweeney announced last week he will run for secretary of state again.

Gilbert's announcement said Sweeney told him on leaving office that Gilbert should be the candidate in 1952 because Sweeney's age and health would prevent him from running again.

Sweeney said on making his announcement that his health was "excellent."
